

A wide-angle, high-angle photograph of the Kuala Lumpur skyline at night. The Petronas Twin Towers are the central focus, illuminated with warm yellow lights. They are connected by a skybridge. To the left of the towers is a tall, dark skyscraper. To the right, there are several other illuminated buildings of varying heights. The city lights reflect on a body of water in the foreground. The sky is dark blue with some clouds and stars visible. The overall atmosphere is vibrant and modern.
